

THINGS I LOVE TO SEE. City haikus

White hydrangeas -
their angelic faces
begging for photographs.

I love to see
the early morning sunshine
on a seagull's belly.

I love to see
the pink clouds in the sky
drift by like passing angels.

I love to inspect the inside of my frigo -
no alcohol!

I like to watch the swallows skim across the garden -
flying low:

which means a chance of rain
to save me watering
the fig-tree.

I want to see
Maria's face in the morning
after a long sleep.

MARCUS CUMBERLEGE www.marcuscumberlege.com
Free City Haikus of July 2015.

PS. FIRST CITY TANKA

THE BRUSHING MACHINE
PICKED UP ONE WHITE PLASTIC FORK
ALL ALONG OUR STREET - AND RAISED ENOUGH DUST
FOR THE NEWSPAPERS;

MARCUS CUMBERLEGE

(a tanka is a haiku with two extra lines of 5 syllables each)